"For me, having twins has been a wonderful experience, although I've also faced difficult times. My identical girls were born at 35 weeks, very small (4lbs 14oz and 3lbs 15½oz), but otherwise healthy and needing no time in special care. At 2½ weeks old, however, they both caught respiratory syncytial virus (RSV) and poor Jade, who was too tiny to cope with the illness, nearly died. That was a very difficult time indeed but, thankfully, long behind us now.

Since having my twins, I have heard many stories – some heartwarming, some amazing, and some truly heartbreaking – from other parents of twins. Out of necessity, we all have to cope but, so often, I have been totally in awe of the incredible amount of courage and strength that many twins' parents show in the face of adversity, and at how very much love and commitment they have for their children. Creating this calendar with all these wonderful pictures and stories has been a real pleasure!"
